Revenue for AutoCAD and related AutoCAD software products in 2017 was $756.8 million, an increase of 30.2 percent from $566.3 million in 2016. AutoCAD was the company's fourth-largest product line, behind Autodesk's other product lines (BES, Inventor, and Fusion 360), but ahead of the third-largest product line, 3ds Max. Get up to date on the latest news and industry trends. In 2017, AutoCAD products accounted for 46.6 percent of the company's total revenue, with the AutoCAD App for iOS and Android at 8.6 percent and 10.3 percent respectively. Approximately 40 percent of AutoCAD revenue comes from professional and enterprise users. AutoCAD also generates additional revenue from other Autodesk products. In 2017, Autodesk revenue was $2.5 billion, roughly 40 percent of which came from AutoCAD. AutoCAD's revenue growth, as well as that of other products in the Autodesk product portfolio, has been fueled by a shift in users' geographic market and product use away from the desktop to mobile, cloud, and web-based products. The company introduced AutoCAD mobile apps for iOS and Android in late 2010, and AutoCAD web apps in 2012. In 2017, AutoCAD had a total of approximately 1.1 million active users, with a total of 13.8 million active users across all of AutoCAD and AutoCAD LT. AutoCAD LT has a slightly lower number of active users, while AutoCAD continues to see growth in desktop users. In late 2017, AutoCAD announced a new cloud-based subscription model for AutoCAD, AutoCAD LT, and AutoCAD Map 3D. AutoCAD and AutoCAD LT users can download and use AutoCAD and AutoCAD LT for free, but new users will need to pay for the services. In 2017, AutoCAD had eight full-time employees, including three principal software engineers.

These technologies include the following: Visual LISP (Visual LISP was deprecated with AutoCAD 2014, and is no longer supported) AutoLISP (discontinued) Visual Basic for Applications (AutoCAD R14 only) Visual Basic (AutoCAD R14 only) .NET ObjectARX (discontinued) They all have varying levels of complexity, from simple scripting to application programming interfaces. Visual LISP and Visual Basic for Applications are mainly used for basic customization. ObjectARX was intended as a more structured version of Visual LISP and was intended to provide a scripting language for use in application programming. ObjectARX, which is still actively developed, is now being migrated to AutoLISP. AutoLISP is a scripting language to extend the drawing application. One advantage is that AutoLISP can easily incorporate new technology, as it is not bound by the older object-oriented paradigm. Another is that it can be used from the command line or from the drawing menu and therefore can be called from batch files. AutoLISP (Visual LISP) is a scripting language for AutoCAD. There is also the underlying .NET Framework on which AutoLISP is built. AutoCAD has supported AutoLISP since Autodesk was introduced on the R5 release of AutoCAD. AutoLISP has been the most popular language in AutoCAD since then. AutoLISP is not the only language in AutoCAD, as AutoCAD Visual LISP is a scripting language that can be used to perform the same tasks as AutoLISP. Visual LISP is available for AutoCAD 2011 and newer releases. AutoLISP allows you to customize AutoCAD without learning the entire application. AutoLISP files are simple text files that can be edited in any text editor. In AutoCAD, you can create AutoLISP documents, draw AutoLISP objects and build scripts. You can also customize AutoCAD functions and add additional commands to the drawing interface. Visual LISP was a scripting language for AutoCAD that was available with AutoCAD R5 and AutoCAD 2006, and was replaced by AutoLISP in AutoCAD 2009. Visual LISP is not a programming language, but a script language that ca3bfb1094
