Q: jQuery Draggable from outside of window? I have a problem with jQuery Draggable. I have a box in my page (50% transparent). By clicking on a button, the box will disappear and a "draggable" appears over the button. Is there any way to set jQuery Draggable so that he will start to move from the beginning position of the box? I guess that's because my box is not in the same "window" as my button. A: The draggable context is the container that you move the elements out of. To force the dragging from the beginning, place a container in the parent of the container that you want to drag, then start dragging that instead. Since you have a transparent container, it would be as simple as this: `$('#parent').draggable({ axis: 'y', containment: '#child' });` Q: Rails - How to query for a "where" clause which is not a field I have a table with a boolean value "ruled" as well as the value for multiple fields. How would I get all records where at least one of the fields is not ruled? I'm used to python and I find it odd that you can't. Maybe I'm wrong, but searching through the docs didn't provide what I wanted. Edit:

For clarity the table is: city (name) street (name) permission (0 if No permission, 1 if Permitted) ruled (boolean) The "rules" are determined by the highest permission number for each city. For example, to get all cities where one of the permissions is Permitted, I was trying to do something like this:
City.where("(select count(*) from permission_rules where city_id =? and permission not in (select permission from permission_rules where city_id =? and permission not in (select permission from permission_rules where city_id =? and permission
